

The pilot signal reception method of the present invention irregularly receives pilot symbols. That is, the pilot signal reception method performs irregular reception processing such as randomizing reception timings or changing reception timings according to reception situations as appropriate to reduce influences of fading. Randomization of reception timings is implemented by generating random timings using a random timing generation circuit.